

Google: Take a Brain Break

I'm all for doing things efficiently. Getting your work done, yada yada yada.

But sometimes...you just need to chill. Give your brain a break.

Google has just the thing for you.

1. Go to www.google.com
2. Don't bother typing anything in the SEARCH box – just click the I'M FEELING LUCKY button below the search box.
3. That will take you to the Google DOODLES page where you'll find links for Google:
  - Interactive Google Screen Games (super cool...see some samples below)
  - This Day in History
  - Famous birthdays
  - You can search the doodles (for interactive or musical or sports...).
  - You can scroll down to see the Doodle Archive – Google's daily themes and the treats they offered with each one.

Use the ◀ and ▶ keys to run; and the [spacebar] to jump the hurdles

Robert Moog's 78th Birthday
May 23, 2012

Click the keys with your mouse; adjust the mixer and filters settings by clicking the knobs.

Les Paul's birthday.
Strum the strings with your mouse.

Hit the PLAY (▶) button and shoot hoops.
Hold down the [spacebar] and release to shoot.
